

Did you know?

That an estuary (pronounced s-chew-erry) is a place where freshwater from a river meets the salt water of the sea? This means that the plants and animals living in and around an estuary have adapted to living in or near water that is fresh in the cooler, wetter months and very salty in the drier, summer months.